LATEST BIRD SIGHTINGS JAN 2015

The first (and perhaps only) Iceland Gull of the Winter was discovered near the South School on 30th December and has been seen there and beside Daisybank several times since. It is a first-winter bird with virtually pure white wingtips which contrast with the overall faintly fawn-mottled pale plumage (See photo).

The new year began with two Greenfinches seen on and off at Helmsley, and two or three Chaffinches over-wintering elsewhere. A Jack snipe was flushed accidentally from the Castle drive a few times around 10th Jan and 'common' Snipe are again very numerous this Winter. A Water Rail was seen scurrying along the edge of the Mill Stream by Lower Millfield on 14th, by which time the almost incessant stormy weather was beginning to ease. There were several reports of male and female Hen Harriers in mid-winter and the occasional Peregrine, but the raptor highlight once again was the 'black' Gyr Falcon seen in flight at close range between Cleat and Houseby on 11th, and at long range on 12th. Curlew and Golden Plover numbers are very low again this Winter - both present in hundreds rather than the usual thousands, but Lapwing numbers seem to be encouragingly static.

The first SE winds of the year around 20th-21st Jan did the trick once again, with a Black Redstart - first seen on the East Pier by Debbie from the Hotel, and by ourselves in the same area the following day (See photo). A Dunnock was in the Castle garden on 23rd. The origins of these two birds is a complete mystery as both had at least 'crossed the sea' to reach Stronsay!

And would you believe it - what may turn out to be 'Bird of the Year' actually arrived on the Limpet Piece deadline day instead of the usual 'day after' - a brilliant Red-breasted Goose discovered by Leslie Miller beside Boondatoon this morning (25th Jan). The bird was grazing with a party of Greylags and was last seen between Banks and Beechwood mid-afternoon. The first record for the island of this rare species which breeds in the northern Siberian tundra regions and winters mainly in SE Europe (See photo).

LETTER FROM SCHOOL PLACE

This letter is like Janus — looking back to the old year and forward to the new. I hope everyone had a happy Christmas and has not yet broken too many of their New Year's resolutions.

Over the festive period I have been contemplating the concept of Santa and his part in our ever-more consumerist Christmas. Ostensibly, the name Santa Claus is derived from the Dutch for St. Nicholas, yet “Old Nick” is a nickname for the Devil, and Santa is an anagram of Satan! Maybe it is time to change the lines of one of our well-known Christmas carols to:

*For Jesus Christ our Saviour
Was born upon this day,
To save us all from Santa's power
Now we have gone astray:*

For the first time, this year I went along to KGS's carol service at the cathedral. It was a moving service, taking the 1914 Christmas truce on the Western Front as its theme. My elder son read the German lines of Carol Ann Duffy's famous poem. Meanwhile, my younger son and daughter performed in Sanday School's interesting rendition of “A Christmas Carol”.

Councillors rounded off the year with a Christmas party. (Paid for out of our own pockets, I hasten to add!) I put some of my Sanday honey into our charity auction, which raised in total £1580 for the Orkney Charitable Trust. It is excellent that we can raise such funds, but I am conscious of the fact that, in our role as politicians, we should be in a position to implement policies to render such charities unnecessary.

I was pleased to meet with Sanday's new Projects & Grants Officer, and we discussed, among other things, the issues affecting island sustainability. It is imperative that our development trusts, community councils and OIC strive to encourage economic development in the Isles, which is essential for all those who need to be able to earn a living here. (Recreational facilities are all well and good, but they will not ensure the survival of our fragile island communities — any more than rearranging the deckchairs saved the Titanic!) I already attend the AGMs of several development trusts in the Isles. If any development trust whose meetings I have never attended wants me to come along to their AGM, or other meetings, please let me know.

At the Policy & Resources Committee meeting we received a monitoring report on the Council Plan, which I welcomed, highlighting the importance of developments being reported regularly to the committee so that the public can gauge how well (or otherwise) we are progressing. Copies of “Our Plan” (“Wur Plan”) can be requested from OIC or found on-line at: http://www.orkney.gov.uk/Council/P/our-plan_2013_2018.htm

I was invited to a special meeting of the Development & Infrastructure Committee on the Churchill Barriers (the fixed-links we have been trying to make work properly for 70 years), and, more significantly, on the North Isles ferry replacement. I asked the question I am so often asked, namely: “When are we going to get new ferries?” and the answer was given as 2019 for the first one, but no commitment was made as to which ferry the new one would replace (it might be the Golden Mariana!).

The consultants undertaking the internal air and ferry study I referred to in last April's "Letter" came back to us with the first draft of their report. I am not at liberty to divulge its contents, but I will say that I commended them on their findings, which accord closely to the experiences members of the public report to me and to my own experiences as a traveller in the Isles.

Other meetings I have attended since I last wrote include: a growth bids seminar, general meeting, staff appeal, licensing, Change Programme Board, budget setting seminars, Orkney & Shetland Valuation Joint Board, and Orkney College Management Council. And I enjoyed a braw evening at Sanday's Burns supper. (Burns' ancestors did, of course, come from Burness in Sanday.) Is anybody planning to hold a McGonagall supper in commemoration of Scotland's other (better) bard?

Shapinsay's community council meeting of the 10th December was rescheduled on account of the storms, so I went out there on the 21st January instead. On the subject of fixed links, a few Shapinsay folk have told me they would like to have a fixed link to the Orkney Mainland, while others have told me they definitely would not. All I say is: Be careful what you wish for.

I shall be attending the Eday School Parent Council AGM on the 28th January, and that afternoon I will be holding a surgery at the Eday Heritage Centre, if anyone wishes to come along. I shall also be attending the meetings of the Stronsay School Parent Council on the 16th February and Stronsay Community Council on the 23rd February, and, along with other councillors, I will be participating in a surgery at Kirkwall Grammar School on the 24th February.

The Inter-Island Air and Ferry Services Consultative Forum meetings will be being held on the 11th February. So if you have any timetabling or other transport issues, don't forget to contact your community council transport rep in good time.

BODY FORM!

By Ellie from Newfield

Yes, I can see his point of view
And that it isn't really fair
For he hasn't the body form
To hang around in the air.
And whilst those sparrows enjoy a feast
He's left looking on.
So a plan of action is needed
Before all the nuts are gone,
For he's not an agile sparrow
With a bodyweight of fluff,
He's the macho blackbird
Built for rough & tough
Whilst those acrobatic sparrows
Are showing off their skills
Hanging upside down
Pulling nuts through the grills.
Non-existent are table manners.
It's everyone to his own,
A free-for-all, a scrummage;
All goodwill left at home;
A fighting mode is now in place
Where there was peace before.
You've never seen such spite,
Not ever I'm certainly sure.
So look on now Mr Blackbird
For clumsy comes to mind,
"Dainty" just isn't in it.
And now I feel unkind
For your song is simply first-rate
And you are excellent company.
Mother Nature just didn't give you
The small bird's agility!
